"The Secretary Uunderwriters' Association.
"Sir,—I deem it my duty to inform you, for the information of the local invurance offices, of the dangerous magner in which gunpowder is put on board, and (so called) stowed in London.

"It is brought alongside taken in, and stowed by the shappers agents, the master and crew of the vessel having no centrol over it in any way.
"Now, the stowing of these parties consists in dropping the various packages into any opening or crevice that presents itself. The powder in my vessel consisted of 400 barrels and 24 cases, and was placed in main hatchway and on both sides of same, amongst a general cargo consisting of wines, spirits, oils, paints, matches, rod and bar iron, &c., &c. The hatches were then secured, and nothing more was seen until arrival.

"We had the usual amount of heavy weather during the voyage. Upon opening hatches in presence of surveyor, we found the powder adrift, and some 8 barrels and 3 cases smaghed. In consequence, daily during our discharge, we have been sweeping and packing up powder from amongst the iron, &c., it, the loose powder, having reached down ever to skin of ship. Now any practical man will perceive we have been momentarily exposed to explosion, more especially from the friction of the iron, and have been momentarily spaced for an an imminent and deadly peril.

"In carrying powder for the Government, it is placed especially from the friction of the true, and have been most meretfully spared from an imminent and deadly peril.

"In carrying powder for the Government, it is placed in a magnatine specially prepared, into which not a particle of iron is allowed to enter. I begged for one in London, but was not listened to by the charterers. Powder is not allowed to be carried at all in emigrant vessels, but it is allowed, it seems, to be put on board passenger ships. Surely the lives of these, and of myself, wife, and crew, are as dear to us as to emigrants.

"As the Government appear to take no cognisance of these matters, but confine their setention to frivolous and vexatious rules and regulations, my object is to persuade the insurance offices to refuse to underwrite a single package in vessels carrying powder, unless in a proper magnatine, which for a few pounds could be erected.

"While I am writing, we all regret the non-appearance of the Strathmore, a new ressel, with some 90 souls on board. Being informed she carried 30 tons powder, and judging from my experience, I (and I shall rejoice to find I am wrong) never expect to see her.

"Surely, Sir, under these circumstances, the insurance offices will not hesitate a moment to put a stop (as far as lies in their power) to this diagraceful and wanton practice, whereby most valuable vessels, their oargoes, and the lives of all on board, are so manifestly imperilled.

Broaded Letters.—Those who are so fortunate as to be entitled to a reputation for wealth, and who are at the same time credited with a benevolent disposition, should be in a position to make some singular disclosures respecting the character of the begging letters addressed to them. Now and then the public are treated to an insight of the kind by the secretaries of societies and by proceedings in the Police-courts, but the subject has not been dealt with exhaustively for many years—not since the late Charles Dickens discoursed upon it in the pages of Household Words. A slight contribution to the published records of begging letter literature comes just now from scross the Atlantic, and it is sufficiently interesting to be worthy of a passing notice. Dr. James Stewart, described as a very wealthy and benevolent citizen of Austin. Texas, has published a collection of begging letters addressed to him, and they help, no doubt, to indicate the curious experience of philanthropists in general. One letter is from a young divinity student who wants the wherewithal to purchase a new coat, in which to preach his trial sermon—a touching and modest request, likely to impose upon anyone belonging to the category of those who are easily parted from their money. A gambler, trankly and sportingly avowing himself as such, is just ten dollars short of untold gold, for he has had undoubted information in a dream that he is to win an enormous prize in the lottery by purchasing a certain ticket. Would Mr. Steward lend him the trifle for a short time! A young lady, rather "of the period," it may be presumed, is "friendless, but beautiful," and quite impecunious; but nevertheless she is determined to make her resources correspond to her attractions by marrying a rich man. By calling in art to the assistance of nature she calculates that she can take fortune by storm in other words, make can take fortune by storm in other words eached us that the simplest way of dealing with the sewage discharge is to call in the Mont, is an enthusiast for cold, and holds irruly to the faith that ice is to be the regene stor of the world. But we fear that cold will not help us out of the sewage diffimouth of the sewer, to turn its content ato frozen blocks to be carted away, o melt as manure on the fields and gardens would be too costly an experiment. In this are the agency of heat promises to be cheaper than that of cold, and the question to be considered is, whether it would answer. We anderstand that the idea has been brought under the notice of the Commission, and will e taken into serious consideration, and -thaps by the united labours of many one practical scheme may be developed. the essence of the heat system is of course t intercept the sewage at the point of discharge subject it at once to intense heat, to olatilize all the liquid particles, and to leave he dry residue in a form which would make t easily portable without offence. We have to knowledge as to whether the details of uch a scheme have been worked out. If no d course it will be necessary to inquire is to the average discharge, as to the ime taken in volatilizing, as to the xpense of machinery, as to the manurial value of the residuum, as to the cost of amoving it, and as to the possibility of dischering the passes that would exceed in the nfecting the gases that would escape in the operation. There is a sufficiency of mechanisal and scientific ability within the Commission sion or at its command to determine these points, and they should be investigated with the least possible delay. It is probable that my apparatus adopted for the ordinary swage discharge would be left idle during neavy rain storms, when the volume of liquisuring down would be altogether beyond the powers of any ordinary furnaces to deal with ; but the nuisance to health is probably at its minimum during these rain storms, which dush the sewers and send the sewage into the harbour in a very diluted form. At the same time it is probable that the greatest amount of damage is done to the harbour, so far tamage is done to the harbour, so far is silting up is concerned, by these very torms which are so comparatively innocuous in respect to health. More silt is carried down into the harbour in one of our heavy hins than goes into it in a month of by weather, and it is carried with such velocity that the silt traps, though weather, and it is carried with velocity that the silt traps, though a geniously constructed, and very ictable up to a certain point, very ser to a large extent fail to arrest the evil. necessary to look at the discoloration of the water during a heavy rain all round Lo shore of the harbour, to see how much northy matter has been carried down, and Lough it is possible that much of this dis- cluding the Guor, Sir H. Baker himself, too fine to settle and be caught in the silt-raps, there can be no doubt that a great deal of dirt which is not very fine is also carried or dirt which is not very fine is also carried to win. And if dirt, according to Lord Pat-ar arrays definition, is matter in the wrong place, city matter, taken from the streets and pread over the bottom of the harbour, is cerainly dirt, for it is in its wrong place ainly dirt, for it is in its wrong place. The plan of cooking the sewage at the outest of the culvert could perhaps be experimented on upon a small scale at Blackwattle wamp, if on careful investigation the idea eems to be sufficiently promising; but assuming that it answered, the configuration of Sydney would require that it should be adopted at several places; unless indeed, which would not be impossible, the outlets could be connected by tunnels which would concentrate the greater part of the sewage at concentrate the greater part of the sewage at one central place. If, however, it should be found that it was cheaper to deal with the matter in detail and to multiply establish ments rather than to throw too much upon me, then the natural fall of the ground would or in favour of such an arrangement. The commission, however, will doubtless look at the matter in all its aspects, and report as to the adaptability of the scheme to the case of

We are sorry to observe from the report of the last meeting of the Municipal Council a little disposition to sneer at the labours of the Commission. We can understand the soreness of aldermen who find the public attention to some extent diverted from themselves towards a newly constituted and somewhat irresponsible authoconstituted and somewhat irresponsible authority. But at the same time it is impossible not to see that the public is indebted to the Commission and to the Government that appointed it. Under the circumstances, it was a wise step of Mr. ROBERTSON to bring a new authority into the field. The Corporation for years past had the sewage affairs in its hands, and had simply gone on extending the control of the con

ing the existing system, and asserting that it had done all that it had powers to do; yet every evil that now exists had been existing with accumulating force for some time, and it is perfectly certain that we should not have had the two health measures of last measure had these hear as inneresting had there. seesion had there been no innovation on the customary procedure. Assuming those mea-sures to be good, and at present we see no reason for doubting it, it can scarcely be denied that we all owe their existence to the reports of the Commission. It may be, and probably is, quite true that the powers of the Corporation have not been sufficient to enable them to deal trenchantly with certain nuiances. But it is also true that aldermen being elected members, have been too much under the influence of owners of property who have great electoral powers, and that they have been too tender towards many nuisances which would require ertain civic electors to be brushed up a bit The introduction therefore of an authority that had nothing to fear from unpopularity, and that was not in any way alarmed by the ballot-box or the hustings, was so far a wholesome and refreshing innevation. vation. Such an assertion is, no doubt, quit contrary to the received theory of representa-tive institutions; but, unfortunately, human nature being what it is, there is no denying the fact that the subordination of the electo the electors may be carried too far, to the benefit of the few and to the injury of the thorough co-operation between the Corpation and the Commission. The objections add by and the Commission. The objections ade by Alderman Charman are reasonable fough, but they could surely be obviated byproper representation in the right quarters. It was evidently the intention of the Goynment that the Corporation should be efficient repre-sented on the Commission, and it is get to the interest of the Corporation itself sat that typesentation should be approximated by the corporation of the Corporation itself sat that representation should, from any can become nom a telegram which appeared jour issue of Thursday last, it appears it the Cape Ministry have summoned an Araordinary meeting of Parliament to consir Earl Can-Narvon's proposal of federation. The subject is one which closely concerns a Australian colonies, and the new phase of oth Africa ederation presented in the telegra to which we refer cannot fail to give satisction. Our last information was to the effect that the Legislative Assembly a Cape Torn land received the proposion of the Secretary of State for the Coules with disfavour, twenty-three members the Assembly having voted for federation of thirty-two against it. But we were all informed that tederation, the Press and pure opinion were strongly in favour of it, and at the advise-tole of the Assembly took coeption in so much to the federation moment as tithe manner in which it had be started, ord Calinativon's proposal in the stinstances a not for the establishment f a Confeèra tion of the South Afric Colonies, but ather for the holding of su a conference of presentatives from the dirent colonic as night lead to common acticin regard tobm for the adoption of the colces, but rathethan the colonies should meet a propose a seeme for their own adoption. South Africa as is well known. was fire onized by the Dutch. A large Dutch ent still remins in the British coloniest the great body of the Dutch been drien by British rule colonies the great fody of the Dutch people been drien by British rule farther the interior. Hence, in addition to the British conies, there are in South a two Duts Republics, the one being range RiverFree State, the other the Barrican or Trusvaal Republic. The Dutewe might supose, are less anxious to into governmental relationships with a British than the other Sta South Africaire; but besides the fact that English conies have large Dutch eler in them, the are important interests that English comies have large Dutch eler in them, the are important interests cor to all the South African States who have it hore to the advantage of Dutch tates to unite with the state of the English to urith the tatch. In the two Dutch shere is a towing disposition to bring the territors under British supremacy, it is proposed that the two Dutch is unite with the three English settles unite with the three English settles to form agrand South African federal to form grand South African federal

There are reasons for such a union is flowed.

Africa that do not at present apply to Australia. Although the settlements of Sueth Africa are European, the population, as in India, is largely aboriginal. While in other colonies immigration has brought an influence of the colonies immigration has brought an influence. India, is largely aboriginal. White in other colonies immigration has brought an influx of Britons, in South Africa it has brought an influx of Kaffics. The disposition of the native tribes of South Africa is to flock into the white settlements. It is said that altho the population of the two colonies of the Cape and Natal numbers nearly a million, not Cape and Natal numbers nearly a million, not more than a quarter of a million in both colonies are of European blood. Of the 800,000 in Natal it appears that only about 10,000 are whites. With this immense propose a Crown colony, has been invested with the dignity of responsible government. The results, as was instanced in the Langalibalele affair, are perpetual misunderstandings and jealensies between the Europeans and the Kaffirs, and the warlike Kaffirs, with the common weakness of aboriginal tribes for retaliation, as ness of aboriginal tribes for retaliation, as ness of aboriginal wines for retaination, as readily create a panic among Europeans is return. The result of the whole is that unequal and defective rule ends in summary measures and elernal squabbles. In this way the uppermost question in the South Africas settlements is the native question. suestion concerns the South African States as whole, and it has for a long time proved a whole, and it has for a long time proved itself to be a question which the colonies are absolutely unable to settle separately. absolutely unable to settle separately. For some time past the internal affairs of the South African colonies have been tending towards a dead-lock. Thus the colonies, having found themselves insufficient to estile their difficulties single-hauded, the matter to be deaded in England has been whether the be decided in England has been whether the disposal of South African difficulties should e attempted by the Colonial Office on its own responsibility, or by co-operation among the colonies themselves. Earl Carnaron has resorted to the latter alternative, and we are learning from time to time what chance there is of ultimate success.

there is of ultimate success.

The native question is not the only question in South Africa that is bringing about the desire for union. The sale of arms and ammunition, the arrest and surrender of ammunition, the arrest and surrender of mininals, and some minor territorial question are also included in the topics which call for federation. "More particularly," says Rad AMARYON, "the present position of Griqua-hand West presses very argently for a careful consideration in its financial, administrative, consideration in its financial, administrative, and political aspects, and the province is so closely connected in its relations with both the Cape Colony and the finitch States that I would gladly be made acquainted with the opinions of those who are to-ally conversant with all the details of so important a subject." Beyond all these, there is the consideration that the union movement in South Africa would tend, as Lord Caraza-von puts it "to knit together the scattered communities of European race into a powerful and harmonious union, valuable allike for the interests of themselves and of the whole Empire." That is to say, the South Africas federation movement is but part of a plan for the general federation of the British Empire, and the events which have transpired for the general federation of the British Empire, and the events which have transpired in South Africa have been laid hold of se furnishing a suitable opportunity for develop-ing the grand project. The work of federation ing the grand project. The work of renerance has already been accomplished in the Dominion of Canada, now it is to be commenced in South Africa. When South Africa is disposed of, the business of consolidation will probably be nitiated somewhere else.

FIRE IN BRISHANK-STREET.—Slight damage was caused yesterday afterness by a fire which broke out in a house in Brishane-street, of Parmanta-street. The house was occupied by Mr. Hamilton Livingstone, and the fire, which originated in a defective chinney, was put out with buckets of water. Four fire engines were present.

Brish Fires.—During the whole of yesterday a large bush fire was burning in and around the vicinity of Waterloo. It caused a large reflection, and fire was great excitement in town. About hult-past 8 of clock an alarm was given that a house was in dameer of being burned down, and five fire engines proceeded to Waterloo. It was found that the bush around Messra, York and Walsh's wool-washing establishment was on fire, and that the flames were in such dangerous proximity to the stables that it was necessary to have wet blankets on the building, which is constructed if wood. The fire around the stables was bearn out with bushes, and all four was over about 90 clock, when the flames had greatly subsided. There was also a large bush fire at North Shore yesterday.

CHINESE INHUMANITY TO THEIR SICK.—Confirmation of the shocking inhumanity of the Chinese to thicr six countrymen comes to hand by every steamer from Cooktown. A passenger by the Western last trip states that hincelf and his mate came on three corpess lying in one ejot, within a few yards of the track, on the road down from the Palmer; and, slet though they were themselves, they could not pass by without attempting some sort of burial. White engaged in this a party of Chinese came in ageht (they are constantly on the track)—and these they sompelied, much against their will, to assist. "What everyone says must be true;" and notwithstanding the disinclination to believe anything so horrible, the story of these people leaving their sick countrymen to die, even without water, when they fall out of the ranks, has been so frequently told, that it cannot be doubted; and that they are robbed of whatever they possess before such desertion appears equally clear. It would be difficult to find a more frightful exemplification of "Man's inhumanity to man" than is bere exhibited.

PURTHER EXPLORATION OF NEW

Str.—The enclosed extracts from a letter I recently received from Dr. James, the angress of the Chevert, will probably interest your readers. The energy and courage with which Dr. James and his placky companions have entered upon their difficult enterprise is worthy of all pusies, and will certainly command our heat wishes.

Although the party is small and its means are limited, there is every reason to hope that, with steady perseverance, this offshot of the Manlesy expedition will lead to important discoveries, as well as enrich our collections of natural history.

"Instead of returning to Sydney with the Chevert. I am preparing to return to Now Guines with the twofold purpose of exploring as much of it as possible, and for making a sientific collection."

"To assist me in this project I have two associates—a Mr. Poliard, who is one of our present expedition, and a thoroughly competent collector and two-dermist, with a Mr. Kuight who is a fine bushom, a strong energetic young man, and somewhat of a botanical collector. The latter belongs to Sir William Macarthur's party.

"We are making preparations entirely upon or own limited resources, and though at first sight it may appear foodbardy, yet, upon considering the circanustances, our propect is a very flattering one."

"We can supply ourselves in full for five months, and have some amplus cash remaining."

"Five months' supplies would be of little avail without other advantages. These are, that we propose to make Port Moreeby our point of departure. This is a mission station, and a white missionary resides there. It is visited not less than once in every three months by the mission stemmer Ellangowan, under How. Mr. Macfarland. Mr. Marfarland has kindly offered us a passage, and every facility in his power to promote our internsts. Furthermore, through him we can get supplies bimouthly; and he is willing to give us a return passage when it is desired.

"Port Moresby is ditunted not more than 25 miles from a large mountain range, from which tower aloft Mount Ower, Mount Stanley, and Mount Yule. It is a neighbaurtheed never before visited by naturalists, and, taking everything into consideration, is a most eligible starting point."

"There is scarcely a remedy in the whole Pharmasopowia of greater theospeatical value than Cod-Liver Oil, and it is greatly to be repreted that its utility is so effen impaired, and even destroyed, by its nauseous taste and rameldity. A sample of the oil, prepared in Norway by MOLLER, has recently been brought under our notice. It is one of the pureat we have ever met with, and is remarkable for its limplitity as well as its freedom from rancidity and disserves and and favour."

BRADLY has been favoured with public auction.

3 to before vills sites.

These allotments have frontages from 33 to 50 feet by noble depths of 132 feet, with right-of-way of 16 feet. Street 66 feet wide.

This truly charming and enviable locality possesses advantages over all other suburbs, being accessible in eighteen minutes from the Post Office, rail and 'bus to Newtown in twelve minutes, and a pleasant walk of six minutes, or buses pass the ground every fifteen minutes. The estate is beautifully situated on the HEIGHTS OF STANMORE.

The air is salubrious and invigorating, and pronounced by the medical profession to be THE MOST HEALTHY SUBURB IN THE COLONY.

Its elevated position secures for it a perfect natural drainage, and aprings of the purset water can be obtained on any portion of the ground. As a site for residences of a superior character, this property is unequalled. The surrounding landscape, dotted with estates of great pretensions affords unbounded scope for the admirer of picturesque and scenie beauty, commanding as it does an uninterrupted view of magnificent scenery extrading to the occan.

The auctioneer would add, that the amount of wealth realized in the colonies in purchasing freehold properties proves beyond doubt that no transactions in the world offer greater securities, profits, and results for investment of opital.

THE RAHLWAY INTO THE CITY.
